

The Toos Foundation and its future programmes

December 2007

Due to the warm reception on the introduction of the last programme which was about the 100 years history of the lyrics in Iran, the coordinators of such programme are set to present other similar events in the near future.

Miss. Jamileh Kharrazi, the founder of the Toos Foundation, “a foundation that is totally charitable”, in an interview with Negaran newspaper said with a review on the management and the coordination of the future programmes it is hoped that future cultural events be expanded for presentation in other countries such as France, Berlin, and New York.

Miss. Kharrazi further emphasized that not only such attempt provides more possibilities for the Iranians in other countries to benefit from the programmes, but it is also a small step by this foundation in studying other cultures alongside our own.

The presence of non-Iranian audience in the two previous events was due to the nature and contents of the programmes. Miss. Kharrazi stressed out that the future programmes will be without these flaws and will be designed in a manner to attract the attention of other nations too.

In light of the new and fundamental decisions in the structures and at the same time in a collision with the Christmas period, the Toos Foundation, had to defer a Ballet programme which was derived from the Epic of the Kings by Firdawsi and some poems by Rumi, to sometimes in March. This will be in line with the Iranian New Year. I hope that it will be more contextual. Of course, it depends on the availability of the Hall.

Miss. Kharrazi also invited all the artists and experts in such important task to cooperate and participate, after all this not a personal mission, she added. We are all working together to promote and preserve the literature and culture of our country. We do not belong to ourselves. We belong to our culture and history.

Because, tickets for all the events set by the Toos Foundation are free, the foundation therefore, asks all the enthusiasts who would like to attend the future programmes to submit their postal addresses via email to the Toos Foundation: info@toosfoundation.com
