

The Ballet from the land of Turquoise-Dream of Peace

This work of art screens the endeavour for peace and for victorious defeat of war. An earthly pentagon-armed with the message of peace, sentiment and love, wards off and defeats the evil war. It brings together love and hope in order to secure the conception and birth of the pure infant of peace.

Pearl

A symbol of whiteness, purity, decency and nobility of Ahura Mazda (The good principle in the Zoroastrian religion), who is the first messenger of peace.

Turquoise

From the kingdom of celestial heavens to the blue waters of world oceans; the colour of purification; the aerolite of Toos and the narrator of the first message of peace in the world through Cyrus the Great.

Man

A combative symbol of power, wrath and arrogance of war, a reminder of the relentless pains and suffering of human beings throughout history. This is a play representing the ups and pain, anger and love, which ultimately leads to the triumph of peace.
